High Pressure Laminate (HPL)

What are HPL's: High Pressure Laminate or HPL boards are composed of compressed paper layers and excel in very high scratch and impact resistance. This high-pressure laminate is suitable for decorative as well as wear-resistant and durable applications. The panels are used in wall coverings, furniture, worktops, and doors.

Vaneer

What are Veneer's: In woodworking, a veneer is a "paper thin" cut of wood that's applied to both sides of a strong core surface, like furniture-grade MDF or substrate material, to seal and stabilize it—which is critically important when you're fashioning built-in furniture or anything with a mechanism.
